You, the membership, will be asked for nominations from the floor, then vote for the candidate slate. By now you will have all received a survey questionnaire concerning your thoughts on how well Chapter 8 meetings are presently structured. "The times they are a changin'", and your comments will influence the future direction we take, so please make the effort to mail it back to us with your comments.

May all of you have a happy and prosperous new year.

David Hagberg was born into the clock world - His father, the late Kenneth Hagberg, trained with Worcester watchmaker Gus Lahde as a teenager, and later worked for Bradford W. Cheney as well as independently. David worked for Bruce Cheney for several years and, as a schoolteacher now, David is mentoring his son, Andrew, in the craft.

While this presentation is more of a travelogue than a technical piece about Joseph Mayer and his clocks, it is a good introduction to Joseph Mayer and his connection to the Howard Clock Co. of Boston. Peter has been a member of the NAWCC since 1971, and has published two articles in the Bulletin and many in the Cog Counter’s Journal. He is Past President of Chapter 8, past Chairman of Cog Counters, and former president of the American Clock & Watch Museum. Peter’s primary horological interest is in wooden movement early American clocks and their makers.
